Joan of Arcadia is a TV series that ran from 2003 to 2005. It is the story of 16-year old Joan Girardi, who (unbeknownst to her family) sees and speaks with God. Helen, Joan’s mother, is also on a private spiritual search. In the final episode of Season 1, Joan is in hospital with Lyme disease. While Joan sleeps, her parents talk quietly in her room.

Helen: I talked to a priest earlier today.

Will: Was he handsome?

Helen: Not as handsome as you.

Will: Go on.

Helen: The priest said that we go through times of consolation and desolation. Consolation is when things are flowing, and everything makes sense, and you feel connected. You’re aware that God is present and has plans for you, maybe even likes you a little bit. You remember that? Will: Sometimes.

Helen: Desolation is the other thing. When you are scared and confused and alone and out of step, and your cell phone doesn’t work, and your daughter gets sick, and the cops come to the door and say there’s been an accident. God retreats, and you’re left with your own thoughts, and those thoughts are dark. There are answers there. He told me. And strength.

Will: How long does desolation last?

Helen: As long as it needs to.

You are invited to join an informal National Town Hall on April 2 at 6:00 p.m. with United Church General Secretary, Michael Blair and guests from the General Council Executive. Our first Cross-Country Check-In last October had more than 330 attendees!
